

You can win a Youth Tour EXPERIENCE!

Two local SLECA students will have the opportunity to be winners of the 2015 SLECA Youth Tour Contest and spend a week with about two dozen other students from across Louisiana on a "Government in Action" Youth Tour of Washington, D.C.

Local Marines make sure every Tot has a Toy

Although MGySgt. Linwood P. Liner (USMC Ret.) is no longer on active duty, he still has a mission.

Every year since 1960, Liner has marshaled the forces required to carry out the annual Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots program in the Houma-Terrebonne area.

The program distributes more than 12,000 toys to roughly 5,500 children during the holiday season.

The mission, he said, is much like the one that inspires the Marine Corps tradition of duty and commitment.

"Our mission is that any kid who needs a toy for Christmas will get one. We leave no kids behind," he said. "We don't want any kid to wake up and not have any toys on Christmas morning."

Liner, 73, became involved in Toys for Tots back in 1960 when he was on a 15-day leave from boot camp at Parris Island, S.C., and his buddies talked him into participating. At that time, the organization was more involved in collecting, repairing and delivering used toys to the doorsteps of those less fortunate.

"I saw it as a worthwhile cause, so I just stuck with it," said Liner, who is also an ordained deacon for the Diocese of Houma-Thibodaux. "When I was a boy, I could never imagine not having a toy on Christmas. I started praying for a bike in August!"

Toys for Tots receives donated items from more than 40 businesses and organizations that serve as collection points. The thousands of toys are received by local charities and schools to present to the children.

The toy drive starts in November and continues through Christmas. Each year, Toys for Tots holds a special collection day in the Walmart parking lot with a live radio feed to encourage people to donate an item. Shoppers often buy toys inside the store and place them in the collection bins.

"We always get so much support. Ev-

CW02 Tim Soignet (USMC Ret.), SLECA employee Yolanda George and MGySgt. Linwood Liner (USMC Ret.) are all proud to support the annual Toys for Tots program.

erybody's behind us, and that's really what makes it work because we couldn't do it without all the help we get," Liner said. "The schools, the businesses, the carnival krewes, everybody in the community supports us. People in this area are always thoughtful and considerate of those who are less fortunate than they are."

And grateful, too.

Liner recounted a story of a bed-ridden man who sustained a head-and-neck injury in a rig accident and was unable to provide toys for his children at Christmas-time. The family received gifts from the Toys for Tots program, and several years later Liner was working at the organization's booth in Southland Mall.

"He came up to the booth and talked to me. He told me how he had been to his house and if it wasn't for us his children wouldn't have had any toys that Christmas," Liner recalled. "By that time he was healthy again and told us he remembered what we had done for him and he wanted to volunteer to help with the program."

In another instance, a local man who died left a request for friends and family to donate to the Toys for Tots program in lieu of flowers or other gifts. Liner said two empty collection boxes were taken to the wake at Chauvin's Funeral Home and filled up in a short time. The next day, two more boxes were taken to the church service and filled to overflowing.

Also inspired to help was CW02 Tim Soignet (USMC Ret.) Chief Warrant Officer. Soignet, currently a training director for the Terrebonne Sheriff's Office, served under Liner when he was a private and got involved in the program about four years ago. (Acct. No. 41968001)

Soignet said the mission of Toys for Tots is similar to the mission that inspired the Marine Corps.

"It's the same basic principles we believe in, to serve a cause higher than ourselves. Marines put others ahead of themselves and that's what Toys for Tots does. It's just another way of doing it." Soignet said after spending many years in the military service, he's happy to be able to serve in this capacity during his retirement.

"I've been to plenty of countries, and I can tell you this is absolutely the greatest country in the world...just the fact that we have the freedom to do something like this," Soignet said. "Despite who we've elected into political office or whether or not you don't like some of the things that are going on, the backbone of this country is strong and intact."

SLECA General Manager Joe Ticheli said Toys for Tots collection bins will be placed in the lobbies of both the Houma headquarters location and the Amelia branch office. He encourages employees, members and the general public to drop off a new, unwrapped toy.

Storm rider applied

At its October meeting, the Louisiana Public Service Commission unanimously approved a "storm rider" mechanism to enable SLECA to recover un-reimbursed expenses from hurricane damages sustained over the past nine years.

SLECA General Manager Joe Ticheli said the rider will result in an adjustment of approximately $1.81 for every 1,000 kWh of power purchased. He emphasized that the adjustment is temporary and would be eliminated after SLECA recovers $2.1 million in un-reimbursed expenses. Depending on the amount of power sold, he said the rider would be in effect for two years or less.

The rider adjustment will appear on bills mailed to members in January, reflecting power consumption during the previous month.
